SLAUGHTERING GOULD BONDS

SPECULATORS SUSPECT A "NIGGER IN THE FENCE" IN KANSAS & TEXAS.

Gould People Take a Great Deal Trouble to Deny that the Company is in Financial Straits-Bears Seize the Opportunity to Wipe Out an Early Advance in Prices-Gossip on the Street To-Day.

much of their own way for the past few days that there was a natural curiosity to see what the next move of the bears would be. A larger crowd than usual gathered to shout out their bids and offers upon the resumption of business at 10 o'clock, and it was at once made clear that the bulls were the ones who had prepared a surprise for those who had the temerity, yesterday afternoon, to sell what they hadn't got. Reading opened at 63, against 62% at the close yesterday, with a hundred throats bidding wildly for the stock. One, three or five thousand share lots made no difference to the planners of the movement—they were all taken as though they were paltry hundreds. Everything boomed with Reading and things looked particularly rosy when the bears suddenly trotted out the Kansas & Texas bugbear, which was made to do service yesterday. The Gould people deny that the company is in financial straits, but the way in which bonds have been slaughtered would seem to indicate that there is "a nigger in the fence" somewhere. The general mortgage 5s and 6s broke to 4 points, heavy amounts being offered on the way down. The stock also fell below the 19 mark, despite the official and semi-official assurances that everything is all right. If there is any real trouble the market generally is apt to be affected, but if the story proves to be a mere invention it is likely to be a boomerang for the bears. Should the holders of Kansas & Texas bonds be forced into a litigation, a la Wabash, the credit of all the Gould properties would receive a stab that might be found troublesome by the Missouri Pacific if at any time it should come into the market as a borrower of money. bonds have been slaughtered be found troublesome by the Missouri Pacific if at any time it should come into the market his a borrower of money.

The break in K. T. securities started a world of talk and enabled the bears to wipe out the early advance in prices in some instances. Reading was the only stock that held positively strong despite the fact that the official statement for September shows an increase in net earnings of $629,000, or about $400,000 less than recent estimates by sanguine bulls. Western Union made a good second, there being little inclination to sell it in view of the announcement that the company at Philadelphia yesterday through the Mutual Union advanced rates 25 to 100 per cent. to hundreds of points throughout the United States. The public is thus already feeling the wiping out of the Baltimore & Ohio Company.

Gould can sail for Europe with a light heart now that the Western Union stock holders have ratified his action in purchasing the Baltimore & Ohio telegraph lines for $5,000'000 of Western Union stock at par. At this morning's meeting Gould voted on $25,000,000 and Russell Sage and Sidney Shepard on $20,000,000. The whole amount of stock represented was $65,000,000.

The Reading has advanced coal 25 cents per ton on all sizes except stove, to take effect Nov. 1.

left that city, going West. Treasury Detective Sampson has heard nothing regarding the fugitive. He confidently expects to have Jackson located before the night, however.

It is believed by Inspector Byrnes and Detective Sampson that Jackson is accompanied by a woman, although they have as yet failed in identifying her. This unknown woman was the probable cause of the infelicities between Jackson and his wife, which resulted in their separation.

The Extradition treaty between the United States and the Canadian Government provides for the return of persons accused of murder, robbery, arson and piracy only, and should Jackson be unearthed across the border, his return could not be asked for. As to the matter of international courtesy, Assistant United States District-Attorney Foster says that he has never known of a case in which a fugitive criminal who could not be extradited has been returned to the authorities here as a matter of courtesy. Such a course certainly would never be followed in the case of a criminal caught here. It would be entirely contrary to the whole principle of the American Government. The treaties are supposed to cover the whole ground which it is desired to cover. Sub-Treasurer Canda reiterates the assertion that he has examined the cash handled by Jackson, and that $10,000 was the exact amount taken. All rumors to the contrary he declares to be groundless. The fact was ascertained without the slightest difficulty, and, although suspicion was not aroused until 9.30 o'clock Monday morning, when Jackson had failed to appear for duty, the money was accunted and the theft discovered in time to cause no delay to the opening of business at the usual hour. All of the cash tallied exactly with Jackson's books, except that a bundle of $10,000 certificates was set down in the the usual hour. All of the cash tailed exactly with Jackson's books, except that a bundle of $10,000 certificates was set down in the statement made by an assistant Saturday night at the close of business as called off by Jackson as containing sixty-five, whereas there were but sixty-four in the bundle.

The committee will probably meet as usual in Washington, on Feb. 22. I have no particular preference as to the place, but I do object to going to St. Louis again. Chicago is as good a place as any in the country for a convention of this kind. I believe in a late convention and a short campaign—one not over three months long.

His fair companion, who seemed to be in her usual jubilant spirits, wore a long, browncheck, tight-fitting ulster, a jaunty little felt hat and a brief gray veil. She surveyed the not particularly edifying spectacle of lower Broadway before noon with considerable interest, and pointed out the sights to her little daughter, who was clad as soberly as Pris-

The victoria in due course arrived at the Buckingham Hotel, and left Miss Terry and her daughter within its precincts. Henry Irving gallantly bade Miss Terry "au revoir," and strolled in a leisurely manner down Fifth avenue, apparently unconscious that he was very generally recognized.

The tragedian entered the Brunswick Hotel where he is to stay, much to the delight of a trio of myrmidions who, in their anxiety to be obsequiously polite, almost fell over one another. One handed Mr. Irving his letters, another prepared to show him up stairs, a third looked and gaped, and then, for the sake of variety, gaped and looked.

Hardly had Mr. Irving been two minutes in the Brunswick, when a tall, roseate-bearded gentleman rushed up to him and seized his hand.

"Delighted to see you."

"Why, old man," replied Irving, as utterly jolly as though the melancholy Dane, the lugubrious Charles and the solemn Shylock were unknown personations, "this is

"In charming health," replied the tragedian.

Then Mr. Irving shook hands again with Mr. Stoker and Mr. Stoker reciprocated in kind. The tragedian then devoted himself to a small group of newspaper men, though he protested he had very little to say and reflected deeply before he said it, "Had a delightful voyage," he began.

That was not particularly original and so Mr. Irving seemed to think. He relapsed into silence.

That was worse, and the tragedian became aware of that fact when he saw Mr. Stoker smile. He threw off his veil of reserve at once, and chatted in his own entertaining once, and chatted in his own entertaining way.

"The production of 'Faust,'" he said.

"which will be seen at the Star Theatre, will be exactly similar to the London Lyceum Theatre production. I have brought my company and my surroundings will be identical. I think the American theatre-going public will enjoy it. They ought to do so," he added, laughing.

"As for any other productions," he went on, "I have my repertoire, which I shall probably dip into. No, I really can't say what we shall give after 'Faust.' Possibly it will be 'Louis XL.' but I shall know more about that anon. My visit will not be a very long one—only five months, and I am only going to play in the four cities—New York, Boston, Philadelphia and Chicago. I don't think I could include other towns in so short a season as five months."

think I could include other towns in so short a season as five months."

"The Lyccum Theatre during my absence is occupied by Miss Anderson. Oh, she is doing splendidly I assure you," he said, with the ungrudging enthusiasm of one who can afford to be kind. "She is really making a brilliant success, and I am glad of it. Positively I am," he added, though not a soul had the faintest intention of contradicting tively I am," he added, though not a soul had the faintest intention of contradicting him.

Mr. Irving was very interested in the latest news about Charles Dickens, "Has he really appeared?" he asked. "You say he has been successful? Ah? 'tis well"—this in a dramatic way, "Poor fellow, he was so extremely fidgety and nervous before he left. He must feel easy now. I am quite sure Americans will like him—no, not only for his father's sake, but his own."

At this point one of the myrmidons, who who had been eagerly watching his chance to conduct the tragedian upstairs, came to the front and exclaimed: "This way, if you please, sir," in such deeply deferential tones that Mr. Irving followed him at once.

At the Buckingham, Miss Terry was in far too emotional a mind to talk. The excitement of arrival was quite sufficient to account for this. She went quietly to her rooms with her prim little daughter who looked more as if she were being conducted to a "Seminary for Young Ladies" than on a dramatic tour with a triumphant mother.

TEEMER DEFEATS GAUDAUR.

An Early Morning Race in Single Sculls on Lake Maranacook.

(SPECIAL TO THE EVENING WORLD.) LARE MARANACOOR, Me., Oct. 28 .- The two-mile race with a turn in single sculls for $2,000 and the championship, between John Teemer, of McKeesport, Pa., and Jake Gaudaur, of St. Louis, was rowed here this morning in the presence of a big crowd, and was won easily by Teemer. His time was 20m. 28 2-5s. Gaudaur's time was not taken. He was half a mile behind and paddled home. Jim Keenan, of Boston, who backed the McKeesport boy, has taken what money the Gaudaur crowd were willing to wager at odds of 100 to 80. Mr. St. John was Gaudaur's heaviest backer. was Gaudaur's heaviest backer.

The accommoditions for witnessing the race were very good for those who had no desire to follow the contestants, but the three small steamers, which were crowded to their full capacity, scarcely carried 400 of the 1,000 spectators. Excursions were run from all surrounding towns and cities, and it can be truthfully said that a more orderly gathering was never seen at a boat race.

The interest in this match was probably owing to the fact that Gandaur and Teemer have, in all kinds of contests, come together thirteen times, that is, including the trial heats and the final heats in the regattas.

The men were ordered on the line at the appointed time and when Referee Ormond gave the word "go" they sped away in good shape. Teemer had made up his mind to outrow Gaudaur and so pulled for all

The race for the first mile was all that the spectators could wish, but the McKeesport sculler soon showed his superiority over his great rival and drew away from him. Gaudaur tugged manfully at his sculle and with his great strength skilf filly brought into play, spurted again and again and did everything that he could do to get on even terms with his rival, but to no purpose. The champion of America saw him everything, and went him a little better and won the race handily.

Three Hundred Men Searching for the Thier

Two strangers landed at Verplanck from the steamer Chrystenah about 7 o'clock last evening. One entered David Keon's hotel on the wharf, got a glass of beer and then went out. The other watched through the window to see where the money was when Mrs. Keon made change.

The second man entered a few moments later and asked for something to eat. Then he concluded to have a glass of beer before eating. As Mrs. Keon was about to pour it out the man ran around the bar and grasped her by the throat, at the same time placing his hand over her mouth, preventing her from making an outery. Then he demanded her money and drew her over to the money drawer.

her from making an outery. Then he demanded her money and drew her over to the money-drawer.

When the fellow made an attempt to take the money from the drawer Mrs. Keon grasped a roll of bills and thrust it into her pocket. The thief got about $4 in silver and then attempted to take the roll of bills from Mrs. Keon. He struck her in the face and choked her, but she would not give up the money. Finally Mrs. Keon got an empty bottle, and struck the man on the head, cutting a deep gash, from which the blood flowed freely. The fellow threw her heavily against the ice-box, still continuing to beat her. Mrs. Keon got another bottle and struck him on the throat. The bottle broke and cut his throat badly just over the jugular vein. Then he ran out of the house and fell down a bank into the river. He crawled out immediately and disappeared in the darkness.

The thief is hurt badly, as he could be traced for a long distance by the blood from his wounds.

About three hundred men turned out to search for the man last night, but did not succeed in capturing him.

morning in the Jefferson Market Court on a charge of grand larceny made by Richard Meares, proprietor of the Hotel Royal. The alleged embezzlements were committed between 1879 and 1884. In 1884 Van Riper went West, but soon after returned. For the past two years he had been employed as chief of the laundry at the St. Denis Hotel.

This morning a number of friends accompanied the prisoner. Ex-Senator Ecclesine appeared as his counsel. Mr. Meares charged that on March 29, 1884, he gave Van Riper $147 to pay bills, and that one bill of $28.85 was not paid. The prisoner pleaded not guilty and demanded an examination. He was held for a hearing on Nov. 8 in $500 bail. Bonds were furnished by William Taylor, proprietor of the St. Denis Hotel.

The call was signed by over one thousand citizens and taxpavers, both Democrats and Republicans, and there is every prospect that the meeting will be one of the largest ever held in New York. It will be a people's meeting and the political bosses will have a chance of knowing the temper of the public. It will be attended by merchants, lawyers, bankers, doctors and all others who have the best interests of the city at heart. It will be neither a Democratic nor a Re-

A majority of the non-office-holding, non-machine members of the following clubs have come out in support of Nicoll and Martine: Harlem Democratic Club, Young Men's Democratic Club and the Jefferson Clubs of of the various Assembly Districts, with the possible exception of the County Democracy Jefferson Club of the Eighteenth Assembly District. The Business Men's Democratic Club and the Cleveland and Hendricks Business Men's Association have indorsed Mr. Nicoll and Mr. Martine.

The Post, in reply, states that a representative of the New York Democratic Committee will come here soon to receive contributions of this character, which, in its opinion, can be made without violating the law. Meantime, the Post itself offers to receive and for ward any contributions received for the New York campaign fund.

He relied upon the support of the Staats-Zeitung, thinking it would indorse the United County Democracy and Tammany Hall ticket. The boss also had an idea that the German Democrats would vote for the "combine." He is now convinced that the German Democrats who have usually supported the County Democracy ticket as against the Tammany Hall ticket, will vote solidly for Nicoll.

Gov. Hill will make three addresses during the campaign. Next Tuesday night he will speak at a mass-meeting in Brooklyn. The following evening he will be in Buffalo and Thursday night in Syracuse.

vote. I am tired of voting for machine candidates."

It is said at the headquarters of the Democratic State Committee that Gov. Hill is very much exercised over the prospect in this city. He is shrewd enough to know that the refusal of the bosses to nominate Mr. Nicoll will hurt the State ticket and that as Mr. Nicoll is now the citizens' nominee, at least ten thousand persons will register to-day and to-morrow who did not intend to vote at this election. A majority of these are Republicans and will vote for the Republican State ticket. The registration to-day is very heavy in the Seventh, Ninth, Eleventh, Thirteenth and Twenty-first Assembly districts which have a large Republican vote. The members of the Democratic State Committee would be greatly pleased if Col. Fellows would withdraw from the contest, Several of his friends who are members of the State Committee have advised him to do so.

DR. M'GLYNN NOT REPENTANT.

What He Sald in His Lecture at Elmira-A Point on Bishop McQuade.

[SPECIAL TO THE EVENING WORLD.] ELMIRA, N. Y., Oct. 28.—The report in the ewspapers of yesterday that the Rev. Dr. McGlynn was ready to repent of his infractions of Church discipline affected noticeably his address last night at the Knights of Honor hall. He had a large audience and spoke in his usual fascinating off-hand style. He replied good-naturedly to the recent fierce attack of Bishop McQuade, of Rochester, who threatens with excommunication Catholics who go to hear Dr. McGlynn. He made the point on Bishop McQuade that the Bishop was a few years ago a bitter enemy of Home Rule, and is now one of its most avowed champions again. avowed champions again.

Dr. McGlynn said:

My lectures are bringing people back to God.
Ism receiving ungrateful treatment for going around and drabbing up converts to the Church.
All this ecclesiastical tuss comes from the fact that I couldn't stay in my church preaching the same old tune to the same people without occasionally giving a lecture on natural justice.
I have never had and never will have any quarrel with my superiors; yet the most pairiotic and most loyal cannot refrain sometimes from kindly criticism. People cannot accept everything that comes from a higher Church authority as divine. A more liberal spirit will prevail in the Catholic Church, and this great missae of excommunication will be righted.

The Henry George theories were touched Dr. McGlynn said :

One of Them in the Printing Office Wants to Aid the New York Democrats.

[SPECIAL TO THE EVENING WORLD.] Washington, Oct., 20.—The Post—Adminisration organ—publishes the following letter from a clerk in the Government Printing Office this morning:

Office this morning:

I notice in the Post of this (yesterday) morning that the President has made his annual contribution to the campaign fund of the New York Democratic State Committee. While not a voter in that State, I am free from any political demands in my own State this year, and I desire to lend my mite in New York, where all Republican efforts appear centred to establish the picket line of the contest of 1888. I know many others, New York voters, as well as Democrats out of their States, at present in Washington, who are anxious to act with me in this direction.

Will you indicate a way by which this may be done without a violation of law or the expense of

The opinion is general that Mr. Chamber-lain, by his recent speeches, has raised so much feeling in Canada and the United States against himself personally as to seri-ously impair the prospect of the mission to the United States. Intense interest is taken in the comments of the American and Canadian press on this subject, and copious extracts are cabled to the journals here.

[SPECIAL TO THE EVENING WORLD.] LEXINGTON, Mass., Oct. 28.-Kitty Davidson, once the petted darling of a fond mother and indulgent father, is locked up in the jail here on a charge of horse stealing. The story of her life is romantic. From twenty-three years ago. When Kitty was about two years old the family moved to Lynn, where, shortly after, both her parents died. The young orphan then lived with an aunt, Mrs. Abbie V. Patchell.

The fortunes of the family seem to have enabled the young girl to have received a good education, as, after graduating from the high school, she attended the State Normal School in Salem, where she studied to become a teacher. She was a brilliant conversationlist and a fine linguist, speaking French fluently. As Kitty was pretty and of a lively disposition, she quickly became a great favorite in society. It is the same old story of misplaced affection and confidence. When once the fatal step was taken her ruin was quick and complete. She sought seclusion for a while, but in the meantime became completely changed.

Last May she visited Lexington and applied at Mrs. Wetherberg's, on Waltham street, for board. Failing to make a favorable impression here, she went to the Russell House, where she obtained rooms and registered as Grace E. Davidson, of Boston, and gave her residence as No. 112 Boylston street. A few mornings afterwards she visited the millinery store of C. Boyce, and, selecting a rather flashy bonnet, saying that she would return and pay for it in about an hour. Shortly after she visited the stable of Willard Wolcott and hired a carriage for a short drive, telling the proprietor she would return the next morning, but she failed to materialize.

Since her appearance in Lexington last May, she had eluded all the efforts of the police of New York, Boston and those of most of the towns within a radius of twenty-five miles.

She was afterward heard of in New York. While there she is said to have married a Mr. Hurst, of Brooklyn, who lived only a few months. For a time she lived in grand style at the Fifth Avenue Hotel, but left there suddenly. Last evening she was arrested in Malden and taken to Lexington.
